INNOVATION, TRANSFORMATION & FUTURE POSITIONING

In times of volatility, globalisation, reducing barriers to entry, technology advancement, tough competition, demanding customers and an accelerating pace of change, the ability to innovate and differentiate is critical. It has a bearing on organisational sustainability. Transformation, in culture and values, in core activities and in core elements of the business model, in organisation structure, in strategic positioning and in image and branding are all factors that must be explored.

We apply the theory and practice of some of leading thinkers in transformation and innovation to help organisations and leaders explore options and build resilience in the face of relentless change.
